In magnificence, the details of the wedding equaled the Vanderbilt-Marlborough union; in simplicity, it might have been performed in a cottage. In lavish display of wealth and extravagance, it easily riquiet and serene joy, it might have been a modest country home wedding—that is, except for the crowd outside that filled the streets and craned necks for only a fleeting glimpse of bride, bridegroom or guests. The crowd was patient when men of affairs and millions rolled up to the stately home of the Oelrichs' in carriages.

It was impatient and eager when wome laden with fortunes rare and flashing light, then entered the canvas lane leadyous and uncontrollable when the bride a shower of rice, and followed by the bridgi slipper, thrown by a sure hand. Then the crowd broke the police cordon and swarmed around the pair. There was only a scramble, a jostlnig, then the crowd fell back and made amends by giving a hearty cheer for the lucky young Americans.

The couple immediately went to Oakdale, L. I., where they will remain for a while Vanderbilt country seat. They will go to Newport for the season

OKLAHOMA DESPERADO EXCHANGED SHOTS WITH PURSUERS.

IS NEAR KAW RESERVATION

EYE WITNESSES OF TRAGEDY SAY

SWINNEY WAS TO BLAME,

Ranchman Knocked Hat From Mattox' Head Before Fatal Knife Was Brought Into Play-Mother Is Still True to Her Boy.

PONCA CITY, O. T., April 4.-(Special.) Clyde Mattox, the desperado, is in hiding to-night near the Kaw reservation, eighteen miles from this city. Officers have been hot on his trail all day and at one time got near enough to exchange shots but the young murderer eluded them and has hid under the cover of darkness. When seen by one of the officers, Deputy Sheriff Churles Jennings, this afternoon, Mattox was driving in a buggy with Oscar Taylor who lived with Clyde and his mother. Bystanders say that Swinney is to blame for last night's quarrel. He talked banteringly man did not respond until the ranchman had knocked his hat from his head and over the bar of the saloon. Then Mattox rushed at his assailant like an infurlated beast. He slashed out his knife, cutting him about the arm before inflicting the fatal blow in the back, under the shoulder. Mattor quietly left the saloon and disappeared This morning early he was recognized by friends who saw him east of the city. Taylor did not know of the murder until he had driven into town this morning, when he hunted up Mattox and drove him away Mrs. S. H. Hatch drove into town to-day after she heard of the killing, to learn the particulars. She was heartbroken, but always faithful. She did not desert her son after this, his fifth murder.

"From all I have been able to learn, I think my boy was justified in killing the man," she said to the correspondent. "Of course it crushed me, and I must ask God's help to bear me up. But I think my son

Did Not Recognize Mattox. It is said that a deputy sheriff from Newkirk met the two this morning and talked with Taylor, but did not recognize Mattox. Taylor returned to the city to night, driving the horse and buggy. "Clyde is safe," he said, "and the officers will never get him. I didn't leave him until knew he was all right."

Deputy Sheriff Frank Pierce and Philip Frey, night watchman for Ponca City, also returned this evening, having lost the trail. There is a rumor on the streets to-night that Mattox had been killed, but it is believed to be only one of the many reports of various kinds which have reached town to-day and which have proven unfounded. Jennings insists that the young desperado is still alive and at large, Jennings insists that the young desperado is still alive and at large.

"I got within gunshot of the boys and we each fired two shots," he said. "They were driving one of Taylor's fast horses, and gained on me steadily."

Taylor's horses have a local reputation. The Newkirk officer who had met the fugitives inquired of Taylor regarding Mattox whereabouts, and was told that he had been captured by other officers and taken back to Newkirk, where the county jall is located. Both men carried revolvers and had Winchesters under the buggy seat.

Excitement here is high, and little sympathy is expressed for Mattox, but there is no danger of an application of the lynch law should he be brought to Ponca. United States marshals are still scouring the reservation to-night.

Oid acquaintances say Clyde will never be captured alive. He is said to have boasted in a recent conversation that "if I ever get in another shooting or cutting scrape they will have to kill me before they get me back."

Swinney, the murdered man, also was a much feared character, but not considered as dangerous as Mattox. An old citizen said to-night: said to-night:
"There were only two men around here that I was afraid of, and they were Mattox and Swinney."

WATSON'S PREDICAMENT.

Springfield School Director Is Accused of Sending Obscene Letters Through the Mails.

SPRINGFIELD, MO., April 4 .- (Special.) The case of J. F. Watson will come up in the United States court probably to-morrow. Watson is charged with having sen an obscene letter through the mails to Miss an obscene letter through the mails to Miss Sue Looney, a school teacher. In many respects the case is a mystery and rivals the Mrs. McVean incident of St. Louis.

Watson was a school director residing near Pierce City, and Miss Looney was the teacher in his district. A brother-in-law of Watson received an anonymous letter which reflected upon the character of Miss Looney, and asking that the brother-in-law use his influence with Watson to have her dismissed. Soon after other letters were sent direct to Miss Looney, and the annoyance was kept up until the teacher annoyance was kept up until the teacher could stand it no longer. Then she in-formed the postoffice inspectors, who, after a thorough investigation, became convinced that Watson was the writer of the letters and upon the inspectors' testimony he was

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE'S PLU-RALITY NEARLY 40,000.

Election Was Entirely on Local Issues-Fight Against Corporations Won Him Many Votes-Election News From Other Cities.

CHICAGO, April 4.-Carter H. Harrison was re-elected mayor of Chicago to-day by a total vote of 146,914, against 107,304 for Zina Carter, the Republican candidate, and 45,401 for John P. Altgeld, the independent

CARTER H. HARRISON,

Re-elected Mayor of the City of Chicago ality, 39,610. In the last mayoralty election Harrison was elected by a vote of 143,000 against 59,342 for Sears, the regular Republican nominee, and 69,637 for Harlan, the independent Republican. The Democrats have elected their candidates for the town offices in the north and west towns, the Republicans carrying the south town, al-though the final count may take this from them. The returns at midnight, however, ndicate that they have a safe majority. Of the thirty-four aldermen elected, the Republicans secured nineteen and the Dem ocrats fifteen. The next city council will consist of twenty-eight Republicans and forty Democrats, a gain of five for the Republicans. The city ticket of the Democrats was elected by majorities running all the way between 6,000 and 8,000. The bitterest fight on this part of the city ticket was for the Ortseifen, the Democratic candidate, by a majority of 6,000. The Democrats also carried all the town elections, electing asessor, collector, supervisor and town clerk in the North, South and West towns, the majorities running from 6,000 to 10,000.

John P. Altgeld said of the result of the election to-night: "One reason for the election of Mr. Harrison was that the press supported him almost without exception, and the great Republican papers were on his side. Why did the Republican papers support Harrison? The reason is not hard to find. They saw that Mr. Harrison had already be trayed the Democratic party, as he had it in his power to do, and he will carry the betrayal a great deal further, and thus make the re-election of McKinley a certainty. The Republicans look on this fight as the first battle of 1900 and feel that the e-election of Mr. Harrison already seals the result of the next presidential cam-

The election was entirely upon local issues, no element of national politics entertaken by Mayor Harrison against the proposed fifty-year extension of the street car franchises was a strong element of his popularity and gained him many votes from the Republican party, besides holding close ly to him many of the Democratic party who might have cast their votes for the Independent Democratic candidate. Another fact that drew to him many Republican votes was the existing opposition to the Republican machine among the rank and file of the Republican party.

Thousands of votes were cast for Harrison that would have been received by Carter, the Republican nomince, had not the latter been backed by the machine politi-There was nothing against Mr. Carter personally, but the fact that he was re puted to be the machine nominee was enough to set many against him. Several ndent and Republican papers sup ported Mr. Harrison, among them the Times-Herald and Post, which have been known as McKinley organs.

The election revealed some remarkable changes in the Republican vote, particuarly in the strong Republican wards, where the shifting to the Democratic candi date was very marked. In the Third ward, which has always been Republican stronghold, and in which the Democrats were not able to secure a canlidate this year, so sure was the party of defeat. Harrison received a majority of fifty-one. In the last mayoralty election this ward cast a total of 3,428 Republican votes, divided between Sears, the regular Republican nominee, and Harlan, the inlependent Republican candidate, against 2,594 for Harrison. To-day the Republican candidate for town treasurer received in this ward 3.447 votes, against 2,389 for his Democratic competitor. The Fourth ward cast two years ago 3.967 Republican votes, against 2.922 for Harrison. To-day it elected a Republican alderman by a majority of 1,800, and Har-rison carried it by a majority over Carter of 611. In various other wards in this city like result was shown, there being strong Republican slide toward Harrison, many of the wards which gave him strong majorities returning Republican candidates for aldermen.

The election was one of the most quiet that the city has ever experienced. There were rumors of coming trouble in the First and Eighteenth wards, where the Republicans claimed they had secured positive evidence of "colonizing" on the part of the Democrats, but the matter came to nothing and there were no difficulties to speak for aldermen. Several arrests were made, one man, Robert Ferguson, having in possession before coming to the polls, a marked official vote.

He informed the police that he had re-ceived it from Timothy O'Connor, a Demo-cratic politician, and the latter was arrested.

Mayor Harrison declared himself to-night as being greatly pleased with the result of the election, saying:

"It shows that the people of Chicago are pleased with the administration, and I am glad of that, for I honestly endeavored to give them the best administration I could. The result shows for itself."

Republican Candidate Talks. Mr. Carter, the Republican candidate,

"I do not take the Harrison victory to be a rebuke to the Republican party. Indeed. I think that national issues were not in the minds of the people wnen they cast in the minus of the people when they cast their ballots-simply the idea was uppermost that Carter H. Harrison was alone to thank for defeating the attempt at long term franchises and that re-election was due to him as a reward for that act.
"Personally, I have no regrets over the result. I have felt for the last four days we had no chance to win, and while I regret the defeat of the Republican party as a poet. gret the defeat of the Republican party as a party, I think that I myself am much better off than if I had been elected." The suburb of Austin was annexed to the city of Chicago as a result of the election. This will add 11,500 to the population of Chicago.

This will add 11,000 to the population of Chicago.

The present mayoralty campaign has been a record breaker in the volume of mall sent through the postoffice. More than 2,000,000 pieces have been sent out. The only other contest that approached this in the use of the mails was at the time of the four-cornered contest in which Hempstead Washburne, Elmer Washburn, D. C. Cregier and Carter H. Harrison were engaged for the mayoralty.

The bulk of the present campaign mail was dunped into the postoffice within the last four days, and the clerks and carriers were almost buried by the avalanche.
